Email migration

At www.audriga.com you can access our migration service for emails. We support the migration between popular hosters such as 1&1, GoDaddy, Google, Yahoo or Strato. We also support other servers via IMAP or POP3.

Groupware migration

audriga groupware migration allows for the transfer of emails, contacts and calendars. For Microsoft Exchange and Open-Xchange, our service is currently in beta. Further groupware systems such as Zimbra, Zarafa and Kerio will be added soon.

SMEs and end users

Easy email migration for all audriga supports small companies and end users who want to transfer their data when switching their hosting provider such as moving from Yahoo to Google Mail.

- Easy configuration on a website - no software installation required
- Smooth migration of all data and attachments
- Continuous status overview and automated problem handling
- Free trial migration to test-drive the service

audriga enables end users and companies without IT staff to migrate their emails professionally.

“The service was easy to use and the migration succeeded flawlessly.”

Julius Parisius

IT services

Speeding up migration projects

audriga assists IT service companies executing migration projects with the tedious and time consuming transfer of data from existing email and groupware accounts.

- High customer satisfaction due to smooth migration
- Better planning due to the estimation of migration time
- Shorter project time due to increased data transfer speed
- Higher quality of the migration result due to continuous quality assurance by the audriga migration platform

“Switching our mail system ran smoothly and within a short period of time.”

Steffen Hemberger, hitcom

Hosters

Help new customers to come on board

By offering an easy migration service, hosters can gain new customers and increase customer satisfaction.

- Acquisition of new customers that don't want to lose their existing data
- Higher customer loyalty after data has been transferred
- Upsell to products which meet the demand of customers

Easy integration either using our white-label option or API access. Partners benefit from special prices and flexible billing.

“With a migration service, prospects become loyal customers fast.”
